Peaceful Weekend in Palm Springs

A quiet, orderly Labor Day holiday weekend was the verdict of Palm Springs Police today after checking over their daily reports showing no disturbances of any major import.

"The hotels appeared quite full but it was a very orderly crowd," reported Lt. Ted Greene. He said there was a minor traffic collision in town and one man was arrested near Araby bridge by the California Highway Patrol for drunk driving.

"Quite a few students were in town, especially around the north end," Lt. Greene said, "but there was no disturbance."

Hotel operators appeared optimistic about the coming season after checking over their ledgers following the long weekend, and most agreed with the police that visitor attendance appeared as many, or more than, previous Labor Day holidays.

FOR VENUS SHOT

Midcourse Maneuver Set Today

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Scientists today hoped to execute a critical midcourse maneuver intended to redirect the Mariner-2 spacecraft within 10,000 miles of Venus for an electric eye view beneath the planet's perpetual cloud cover.

The maneuver was originally scheduled for Monday but was canceled for 24 hours by scientists at Caltech's Jet Propulsion

Laboratory (JPL) to allow more time to determine whether the craft's high gain antenna-earth-censor combination was "locked on the earth or the moon."

To successfully execute the midcourse maneuver, the antenna should be "locked in" on the earth so it would be at a proper angle to receive accurately the signal to the robot "electronic brain" on the craft. When the process is triggered a small rocket motor is activated to correct the trajectory of the Mariner-2.

JPL scientists said Monday the maneuver could be attempted "within the next few days," but after that it would be futile to attempt the course correction.

Without the midcourse correction, the Mariner-2 will fly by Venus at 250,000 miles — too far to obtain valuable information on the mystery-shrouded planet.

It was stressed that it "was not detrimental to the long range success of the mission" if the earth-censor was not locked on earth.

At 7 p.m. EDT, Monday night the Mariner-2 was 1,324,823 miles from earth, traveling about 6,700 miles an hour.

Civil War Raging in Algeria

Guerrilla Forces in Battle With Army Units Near Algiers

ALGIERS (UPI) — Fierce fighting between Algerian army units and guerrilla forces opposing Vice Premier Ahmed Ben Bella was reported south and west of Algiers today.

Headquarters of Willaya (military district) Four, center of Ben Bella opposition, said the fighting involved "artillery and automatic weapons."

Willaya Four said its guerrillas had pushed the Ben Bella forces back. It put the casualties at "dozens of dead and seriously wounded."

"The combat is still going on with extreme violence," the Willaya Four announcement said.

The announcement said the fighting took place south of Aumale, about 55 miles south of here, shortly after daybreak.

Willaya Four said its guerrilla troops "resisted fiercely and repelled the invaders."

The fighting near Aumale appeared to be the heaviest since the pro-Ben Bella forces began their three-pronged drive toward Algiers last week to wrest control of the capital from the rebel military commanders.

Police sources at Medea reported more "violent fighting" near Massena, about 120 miles west of Algiers, early this morning.

First reports from the Massena region list eight dead and "several" wounded, the sources said. There was no immediate report on casualties in the Aumale region.

Confirms Fighting
The Algerian army headquarters in Oran confirmed that fighting broke out near Massena but gave no details.

Troops loyal to the political bureau, under orders to advance "at all costs," were moving toward Algiers in their drive to wrest control of the capital from rebel military commanders of Willaya (military district) Four, Ben Bella heads the political bureau.

Three strong army columns supporting the political bureau were reported on the march. The routes of march of two of the columns appeared likely to join at Blida, 25 miles south of Algiers.

Around the capital anti-Ben Bella guerrillas were reinforcing positions.

The advance of the Algerian army units from the south, east and west sent opposition troops of Willaya Four into retreat toward the capital.

PNOMPENH, Cambodia (UPI)

Prince Norodom Sihanouk of Cambodia said Monday that if the United States and the Western Allies could not protect his country's borders and guarantee its neutrality he might appeal for help to Communist China or Russia.

The prince said at a news conference that he was tired of "very friendly, very sugary letters."

Norodom Sihanouk apparently was referring to an exchange of letters with President Kennedy and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Britain on his proposal for an international conference to recognize Cambodia's international rights.

Kennedy said he felt "official letters" from interested countries in support of Cambodia's independence would be more effective than a conference. "I should be glad to write such a formal letter for the United States," Kennedy said.

The text of the President's letter was released Monday in Washington.

Norodom Sihanouk suggested the Western powers should give Cambodia the same guarantees they gave neighboring Laos. He said that if a workable solution cannot be found, Cambodia "in the last extremity" would appeal for "Chinese and Soviet garrisons."

The prince said Cambodia had been able to increase its army by only 550 men "because of lack of money."

"We can try another way," he said. "But I do not want to get any more very friendly, very sugary letters" saying they recognize and respect my country. I want respect but I also want guarantees for my country."

California Election Campaign Under Way

By United Press International

Labor Day is past and the struggle for votes is on in the California election campaign.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown will get his campaign formally under way tonight with a rally in San Francisco.

Republican challenger Richard Nixon embarks on his drive for votes next week.

The issue of a Brown-Nixon television debate warmed up during the weekend with two top Republican leaders claiming that President Kennedy advised Brown to steer clear of a video debate.

Republican National Committee member Joseph Martin Jr., and National Committeewoman Mrs. Patricia Hitt said Kennedy gave the warning personally to Brown during the President's recent visit to California.

Brown's press secretary, Jack Burby, branded the GOP statement a "deliberate and desperate lie."

Burby said Brown is holding two dates in October open for the debates and will keep them open until Friday.

Nixon's press secretary, Herb Klein, replied that Nixon "is seeking the debate and has set no conditions for reopening negotiations."

"We suspect that Brown is retreating," Klein said.

Brown made a bid for labor support Monday at the AFL-CIO family picnic at the Alameda County Fairgrounds.

The governor said that although Nixon professed opposition to the 1958 "right to work" initiative, his Los Angeles law firm "was the biggest contributor to campaign funds for its initiative."

Brown made the same statement in a speech earlier in the day at the Orange County Fairgrounds.

Klein, replying for Nixon, said the former vice president opposed right-to-work in 1958 and does so now.

U.S. Slaughters 499 In Labor Day Traffic

By United Press International

The Labor Day holiday traffic death toll reached 499 today and the National Safety Council called for "immediate drastic actions" to prevent future highway slaughters.

The final United Press International tabulation for the 78-hour period from 6 p.m. Friday until midnight Monday showed a total of 499 traffic fatalities.

Howard Pyle, president of the Safety Council said in Chicago "if this tragic waste of human

Powers Flight Of '60 Cited in Soviet Protest

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union charged today another U2 spy plane had violated Soviet borders.

In a protest note to the United States handed over today to U. S. charge d'affaires John McSweeney, Russia referred to the U2 flights as provocation.

Moscow Radio broadcast the text of the note at 10 a.m. EDT today.

'Retaliatory Measures'

The Soviet note said the U.S.S.R. will be "compelled to take retaliatory measures up to U. S. A. bases," if the "provocations" continue.

The Soviet News Agency Tass reported the Soviet note specified the new U2 flight "intruded into the Soviet air space in the far east, 65 kilometers (40.3 miles) east of Yuzno-Sakhalinsk, at 7:21 p.m. (12:21 p.m. EDT) Aug. 30 and overflew the territory and territorial waters of the U.S.S.R. for nine minutes."

Yuzno-Sakhalinsk is a major city on southern Sakhalin Island, just north of Japan.

The Soviets asked the U. S. government to "rigorously punish the persons responsible for organizing this flight of an American warplane. . . ." Tass reported.

Call for Action

The Soviets also asked Washington to "take measures at once to prevent any future violations of the Soviet air space."

"If this is not done, the Soviet government will take measures it will deem necessary to safeguard the security of its frontiers in the event of a new violation," Tass quoted the note as saying.

Tass reported the Soviet government "reserves the right to raise" the question of the alleged U2 flight before the U. N. General Assembly.

The Soviet note, according to Tass, stressed that this alleged "gross violation of the Soviet frontier is of a flagrantly provocative nature."

Powers' Flight Recalled

Tass specifically connected this latest event with the May, 1960 flight of Francis Gary Powers that ended when his U2 was downed over Sverdlovsk in Siberia.

The Soviet note as reported by Tass said:

"What is this—a revival of the old practice of the previous (Eisenhower) government, condemned by President Kennedy himself, or a provocative act of the bellicose United States quarters which would like to create a new international conflict, like the conflict of 1960, and to aggravate the situation to the maximum?"

"The U. S. government must furnish a clear answer to this question," the note said.

Spy Plane Repeat Not Believed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. George H. Mahon, D-Tex., chairman of the House Defense Appropriations subcommittee, said today he did not believe the United States was flying U2 spy planes over Russian territory.

Mahon said he had received assurances from a number of "high leaders" of the government in recent months that no such flights were being made.

"And I do not believe we are," he told United Press International. "And, in my opinion, that is not a phony policy."

State Department Press Officer Joseph W. Reap told reporters shortly after noon that "we have received a note from the Soviet Union and it is now being studied."

Reap had no further comment. But the White House said the State Department would comment within a matter of a few hours on the Russian charge.

Three Seek Hospital Post

Mrs. Marjorie Baron, Palm Springs realtor, was a late entry Saturday in the race for seats on the Desert Hospital District board. She joins already announced candidates and incumbents Dr. William P. The hospital district includes the Palm Springs area, extends south-east to Rancho Mirage and north through Desert Hot Springs.

New York Stocks at Closing

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks soon lost their initial firmness today and then tumbled lower with the tape late at the close.

Brokers were disappointed with the action, many having expected a follow-through on last Friday's rally. Many blamed the fall on the tense turn in international relations, notably the increasing claims that U2 planes have once again violated their territory.

Among the blue chips, Goodyear, General Electric and American Telephone dipped a point or more. Steels were weak despite a 3.8 per cent pickup in industry production last week. Losses ranged from a fraction in Republic to around 2 points in Youngstown.

Friendship Highway Cost Soars

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House investigators estimated today that the Cambodian-American Friendship Highway eventually may cost more than $50 million, three times its original price tag.

President Kennedy has earmarked another $7 million to pay for repairs on the road, which started to fall apart after its completion in 1959. Congress gave him $2.7 million last year for the same purpose.

These expenditures are in addition to the $34 million already spent on the Cambodian road. The original cost estimate on the project, designed to be a showpiece of American engineering and construction, was $17 million. Aid agency officials said the original construction contractor, A. L. Dougherty Overseas Inc. of New York and Hammond, Ind., also wanted more money for its work on the 132-mile highway.

A House watchdog subcommittee, led by Rep. Porter Hardy Jr., D-Va., charged last November that the highway was "so badly bungled that it damaged our prestige, and burdened us with costly repairs and supplied the Communists with an effective source of anti-American propaganda."

The House group strongly criticized the Dougherty firm, U.S. foreign aid officials and another American firm, Michael Baker Jr. Inc., of Rochester, Pa., which did the engineering.

The two American firms, however, strongly denied any responsibility for the road's failure, saying proper maintenance was not performed by the Cambodians and heavy rains damaged portions of the highway.

Most of the houses along the Saigon River in South Vietnam are built on stilts by squatters who don't have to pay taxes as they would if they built on land.

U.N. Plan For Congo Accepted

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — United Nations officials today welcomed Katangese acceptance of the U.N. plan for reunification of the Congo and predicted fast action on it.

Acting Secretary General Thant was expected to put the program in motion as soon as he returns late this afternoon from Vienna, completing a tour of Eastern Europe.

The plan, submitted by Thant two weeks ago, would end the two-year-old secession of Katanga Province and establish a federal form of government. Katanga's secession has been the principal cause of the Congo problem which has kept a U.N. force in the country at $10 million a month.

Katangese President Moise Tshombe notified the United Nations of his acceptance Monday. His statement said "the government of Katanga declares it receives with enthusiasm the decision to give the Congo a federal constitution."

"Wanting to realize this cardinal objective, it adheres heartily to the whole of the plan which presents the general principles of the solutions to be defined," the statement said.

The plan, worked out by the United Nations with the United States, Britain and Belgium, was presented to Katanga 11 days ago by Robert V. A. Gardiner, chief of the U.N. Congo operation. Monday was the deadline given for Katanga's response.

The plan allows Tshombe much of the administrative autonomy he has fought for as well as a significant share of all foreign currencies attracted by his copper-rich province.

Under the projected federation, however, the Leopoldville regime of Premier Cyrille Adoula will be the over-all authority in Congolese affairs.

Loretta Fritzel Funeral Rites Set Wednesday

INGLEWOOD — Funeral services will be conducted here Wednesday at 2 p.m. for Mrs. Loretta H. Fritzel, 41, of 68453 E. Ramon Road, Palm Springs, who died at a hospital here Sunday.

Solons in Slow Trot Coming Down Stretch

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress headed into the homestretch today at something akin to a slow trot.

Both the House and Senate began the annual "race" to adjournment. If the pace is steady, the legislators hope to quit by the end of the month.

But some members, returning from their Labor Day weekend, said it may be as late as Oct. 13. The situation is particularly irritating in the House where every seat is up for election in November and the pressure to begin campaigning is mounting.

Nevertheless, the House set itself a snail's pace for the week and most of next. The official reason for the slowdown was the fact that a dozen state primaries are scheduled during the next two weeks.

Jazz Combo Halts Riots By Students

SEASIDE, Ore. (UPI) — Police watched over a calm town here today after the charms of a rock and roll combo proved the turning point in soothing a savage student mob.

National guardsmen were withdrawn and liquor stores reopened during Labor Day.

The tension eased after about 1,000 youthful rioters ended a two-day spree Sunday night by twisting for hours on the beach in the light of several bonfires. A combo blared hit tunes over a loud speaker.

Some 125 students and youthful employes, mainly from around the Northwest, faced charges arising from the riots.

The rioting started Saturday. Before it ended, policemen had been pelted with rocks and beer bottles, windows smashed, a life-guard tower demolished, and signs uprooted. Riot squads used tear gas, fire hoses, baseball bats and ax handles to disperse the charging throngs.

Authorities of this small resort, a favorite vacation spot for students, planned to investigate the outburst. Gov. Mark Hatfield said the state was willing to participate. He termed the rioting "mob hysteria."

Palm Desert Chamber Now Is in 'Best Shape'

PALM DESERT — The Palm Desert Chamber of Commerce "is not in trouble," Richard Kite, Kite reported the chamber is "in the best shape it has ever been." He explained that "all the bills are paid, and for the first year we are in the black."

Crash Kills Famed Pilot C. Winters

CHINO, Calif. (UPI) — Famed daredevil pilot Cliff Winters died Monday the way he once said he would, in a plane crash while performing a stunt before 15,000 spectators.

"If it's just a matter of time," he once told his girl friend, "that's the way I want to go." The 33-year-old pilot was doing the last roll in the last stunt of his last show during the last day of the National Air Show when his engine died. He was flying at 200 feet.

He was pulled from the wreckage but died in a hospital three hours later without regaining consciousness.

A few days ago Winters deliberately crashed an old twin-engine trainer into the ocean off Santa Catalina Island as a publicity stunt for the air fair which he helped produce.

He narrowly escaped a collision with another plane in flight a month ago while filming a television stunt. He was not wearing a parachute, but grabbed one from the back of the plane and plunged from 4,000 feet before he was able to struggle into the chute and open it 100 feet above the ground.

The stuntman had just flown under two 13-foot barriers and through a wall of flame before the fatal crash.

"I guess this was inevitable," said Miss Carol Carson, 28, Winters' girl friend. "We had all kind of conditioned ourselves to this."

Sand dunes in Central Asia's Gobi Desert have been known to migrate as much as 65 feet in one day because of strong winds.

Kite reported the chamber is "in the best shape it has ever been." He explained that "all the bills are paid, and for the first year we are in the black."

Kite asserted the open meeting called in mid-August to gain community support was designed to "draw attention to the apathy and lack of support of the non-member businesses in Palm Desert."

Kite, in the letter which asked chamber members to make full or partial payments of 1963 dues to bolster the chamber funds, stated a new manager will be hired as soon as a seven-member committee headed by Phil Franklin makes recommendations to the board. The chamber was left without a professional manager in early August when Don McNeilly, manager for three years, resigned. McNeilly, who later joined the Adrian Schwilch organization as a vice president, cited insufficient salary as the major reason for his resignation from the chamber post.

The second community luncheon meeting is slated for Sept. 11 in the Firecliff Lodge here.

Power Boat Is Runaway, Owner Says

INDIO — James Davis, La Habra, asked sheriff's deputies here Monday to be on the lookout for his 14-foot power boat.

Davis explained that he and an unidentified companion had last seen the speedy craft when they both splashed overboard near Helen's Beach on the Salton Sea south of here.

Davis explained he and his friend fell from the craft as it hit a large inshore swell. As Davis fell, he accidentally pushed the boat throttle forward for flank speed and the boat disappeared into the sea haze.

The swimming boatmen easily reached shore and drove home after notifying state park authorities of the runaway craft.

'Giant' Celebrates 10th Birthday

LIVERMORE (UPI)—A mysterious giant celebrated its 10th birthday Sunday.

It was a quiet event, marked only by passing notice in a few newspapers. But it honored a decade of closed-mouth secrecy, interrupted occasionally by the announcement of some startling discovery that could, or would, shake the foundations of human history.

The giant is the University of California Lawrence Radiation Laboratory at Livermore, a 700-acre complex of buildings and testing facilities lying among the rolling hills of a peaceful farming valley some 40 miles east of San Francisco.

It is a giant, NOT because of its size, but because of the enormity of its influence on recent—and future—events.

What is done at Livermore forms the basis of many decisions in Washington. What might be done at Livermore forms the basis of many educated guesses and decisions in the Kremlin.

But, apart from the Washington decision-makers and the project scientists, few people know what actually is being done behind the guarded gates that cut the laboratory off from the sleepy town of Livermore.

HOT CAMPAIGN

Two Divergent Views On Top School Post

The California Campaign Editor's note: Aside from the gubernatorial contest, no race for statewide office has attracted more attention than that between Max Rafferty and Ralph Richardson for State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Robert Fairbanks of United Press International, has submitted an identical list of questions covering many major educational issues to both men. The following five-part series contains their replies.

By ROBERT FAIRBANKS
SACRAMENTO (UPI)—California's two candidates for Superintendent of Public Instruction take divergent views on the public school curriculum.

Ralph Richardson and Max Rafferty expressed themselves in answers to identical questions submitted by United Press International.

Following are the questions and answers:

1—Should the schools continue to concern themselves with a student's ability to get along with his fellows, his citizenship, his adjustment?

Rafferty—Certainly, but not in an atmosphere which relegates subject matter to a position of secondary importance. Many social agencies exist to adjust a pupil to his environment, including the church, the home and society itself. On the other hand, there is only one agency set up by our society to teach specific, organized and systematic subject matter. This agency is the school.

Thus, while the school does have a responsibility in the field of adjustment, this should be an outgrowth of its primary function: The teaching of specific subject matter.

Richardson—The pendulum of educational philosophy is swinging in a return to a stronger focus upon the basic and fundamental components of an education: The informally labeled 3 R's. With this direction of movement, I am in complete accord.

The demands of our times require students who can not only read, write, and spell well, but who can also reason and think for themselves in a complex and changing world. Let us educate for excellence and survival, and leave behind us the errors and excesses of "progressive education" and education for "Life Adjustment."

2—(A) Would you add any subject to the list of those now legally required in the schools? (B) Would you drop any?

(A) Rafferty—Yes. Economics in the senior high and world geography in the ninth grade.

(B) Rafferty—I'd certainly like to get rid of some of the legal requirements in the field of curriculum. Things like "humane treatment of animals" and "supervised play" now made mandatory by legislative action should have no place in California curriculum.

(A and B) Richardson—The important thing is that the school curriculum be kept up to date. We should never close the door on changes in these rapidly changing times. For example, rapid increase of knowledge in physics and chemistry require major modifications of high school courses in these subjects.

Grade placement of subjects should also change. Calculus and analytical geometry are moving into the high school; geometry into the elementary grades. This I approve and would support.

I would use the influence of my position to do four things with respect to the changing needs of the curriculum:

—Bring course content up to date.

—Assure proper grade placement of each subject.

—Seek ways of offering non-school hours for such programs as driver training.

However, during its 10 years of operations, the laboratory has released some information about its activities.

The laboratory was established Sept. 2, 1952, just two months before the United States exploded its first hydrogen bomb. At the request of the Atomic Energy Commission, Dr. Ernest O. Lawrence and Dr. Edward Teller, both key scientists in the development of the atomic bomb, began recruiting a small band of young physicists.

The purpose of the facility, in the words of the AEC, was "to form a nuclear weapons laboratory to help cope with the problems involved in maintaining American superiority in nuclear deterrence."

The weapons research program now constitutes about one half of the laboratory's efforts. Almost everything about the program is classified.

But on Dec. 1, 1960, the laboratory broke its traditional secrecy and announced that it had designed and developed a unique weapon of modern warfare: The warhead for the deadly Polaris, the submarine-borne missile that now provides added protection against another Pearl Harbor.

Smith Keeps Deflating Our Image

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Howard K. Smith has changed my whole line. After his weekly ABC-TV commentary of July 18, in which he told what terrible physical shape Americans are in, I felt so guilty I joined a health club.

Since then, lifting weights and huffing and puffing four times a week, I have felt fine and remembered him regularly in my prayers. But Wednesday night I ran into him again on his half-hour show, and once more he deflated us with both barrels, this time telling us America is getting uglier — in architecture and landscape.

The point is, the man just won't let things be. Beneath his gentlemanly exterior lurks a ripper and a snorter who delights in kicking sacred cows in the shins. He is ready to try anything once more with feeling. The word is enthusiasm, and I suspect it is the main reason for the success and renewal of his show.

Wednesday night, he described the nation's new highway architecture as "American hot-dog stand modern." He talked of "hamburger slums." He warned, "the barbarians are moving fast."

To downgrade the hot-dog and hamburger on American television during prime night-time hours takes considerable courage, but he kept punching, laying low the huge antiseptic glass buildings of New York, cheap housing developments and the decline of beauty.

At one point, I felt like shouting, "Good for you, Howard K.," because I recently returned from San Francisco, where the encroachment of motels is wounding even that wondrous city in depressing manner.

Smith and his expert guests brought home the unquestionable point that environment — pleasant or depressing — affects the minds and spirits of those who live in it.

Aline Saarinen, architectural writer, felt: "People respond to something good." August Hecksher, special consultant on the arts to President Kennedy, brought up the problem of monotony. But New York architect Philip Johnson got to the cure — money. There is more money in cheap building, he said, adding: "Beauty is expensive."

Smith noted encouraging signs of concern for the nation's beauty but felt government regulation of some kind is needed.

The laboratory also directs two key explosives testing projects: A non-nuclear facility some 15 miles from Livermore, and its permanent test group at the atomic proving grounds in Mercury, Nev.

It does research in nuclear propulsion and has also contributed to Project Plowshare, the program designed to use nuclear explosives for excavation, mining, generating power and producing water in arid areas.

One of the least publicized but most far-reaching programs under way at Livermore is Project Sherwood, an ambitious attempt to provide almost limitless energy through controlled thermonuclear fusion.

PALM DESERT

Younger Set Sees Beautiful America

By THIRZA SCHENK

PALM DESERT — Seeing the Western part of his adopted country, under the guidance of his "adopted" mother, Vera Cordon, young Ettore Graziano, has returned to Palm Desert with a wealth of knowledge of historical spots, beautiful scenery, and thrilling experiences. Vera ruefully admits the experiences could have been even more thrilling.

For instance, if the car had developed trouble in Death Valley. Being accustomed to desert country, Vera had no particular qualms about traveling there, and was eager to have Ettore see this famous spot. It was only when she was actually well into the valley, and saw such few fellow travelers that she realized the hazards at this time of year.

After spending some time in Reno and the historical spots in that area, they went to Lake Tahoe, and over the famous Donner Pass to northern California, stopping in Crescent Mills, where Vera used to live, to introduce Ettore to her friends. Then, of course there were all the exciting places to go and things to see in San Francisco — Golden Gate Park, the cable cars, the Bay and Golden Gate Bridges, and all the other attractions so fascinating to a first time visitor.

Homecoming was by way of the coast, with short stops in Pismo Beach and Los Angeles. Vera says Ettore is still excited over everything he saw and over catching his first fish!

Friends, who have watched with great interest, the integration of this appealing and intelligent little Italian youngster in the community, will be happy to know that all visa red tape is resolved, and Ettore will remain and go to school here next year. He's thrilled with his first job here, with Jerry Knauer at the "Doggy Duds", (and only one year in this country).

Other vacationing youngsters were the grandchildren of Carl and Edna Henderson, Casey, who is 13, Ricky and Donna, twins, 8 years old who spent the summer with the Hendersons on their ranch in northern California (Feather Falls) 2000 feet high, overlooking Oroville, on a branch of the Feather River.

Besides the fun — swimming in the "ole swimmin' hole", and horseback riding, the youngsters got a liberal education in farm life — saw baby pigs born, and many other interesting phases of life in the country. Other visitors at the Henderson ranch, were their daughter and son with their children.

Edna reports all kinds of activity in that part of the country, due to the building of the dam on the Feather River project. The Hendersons are now back home in Palm Desert.

Two more of the younger set who are "living it up" at the beach before school starts are Liz and Helen Coates, who are with their grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Whalen at Oceanside. Helen Sr. says it's hard to say who's luckier, the kids or she and Bob who are left at home!

Charles and June Gibbs are "south of the border, down Mexico way"—Mexico City, Acapulco and Guadalajara are some of the places they will visit.

(Reminds me of a time when I was going to Mexico on vacation. My young assistant, just out of school, knowing I was going to Mexico, sitting with pen in hand, asked me where I might be incommunicado. A puzzled look came over her face, and she asked "How do you spell that?"

The George Armstrongs have been visiting in Peoria, Ill., and a card from the Wilbur Bears informs friends that they are in the deep South — Kentucky, at present.

Mavis Hooke is visiting her daughter and son-in-law in San Francisco.

Ruby Guest is back in her home at the Sandpiper and enjoying the desert sun (pun intended!) after weeks of traveling on the continent in rainy and cold weather. She particularly enjoyed the experience of seeing the Royal Military Tattoo — (yes, that's what she said, and this sent us scurrying for the dictionary — Ruby found her first, and Webster defines it as a signal given by drum beating also as a "outdoor military pageant").

In this case, it is a pageant—where bands from all the British possessions, all in their colorful native attire, are grouped on the parade ground in front of the Royal Box, with the beautifully and impressively lighted Edinburgh Castle on a hill in the background! —truly a feast for the eyes and ears. An added attraction was the fact that Ruby and her friend Vi Castle were occupying the box next to the Royal Box, however her Majesty was not there that particular evening! Most impressive was the changing of the lights, in keeping with the mood of the music being played.

Other Sandpipers, the Seth Howells, were in Pacific Palisades for a while and brought back their grandchildren, Denise and Teresa Rutkoskie for a few days in the desert.

Virginia and Hal Baldwin were doing a bit of shopping for a short stay at their Silver Spur home. Virginia says she's still too busy with Los Angeles Beautiful, while Chairman Valley Knudsen is away to be able to spend much time here yet, but hopes to be able to give Desert Beautiful a hand on October "pick-up, Paint-up, and Plant" drive. She's advisor to the local group.

Leah and "L. C." Lewis spent a few days at La Jolla, and there, by hangs a tale! A cat's tale, actually. Seems that when the Lewises moved to Palm Desert about a year ago, a cat "adopted" them. Naturally, there was developed a strong mutual attachment, and Leah couldn't bear to leave Boots on his own. She was sure the other animals would get any food left out, and thought he'd get too warm. L.C. argued that Boots was basically a "wild" cat, but finally consented to take him to the animal home, where, of course, he received the best of care. However, when they returned, Boots was a very unhappy cat and had worn himself to a frazzle trying to get out! Which just proves, Leah says, that "freedom is more important than security."

Ottar and Lydia Roen entertained houseguests Al and Jean Iverson of Canoga Park over the Labor Day weekend, taking them to the Salton Bay Yacht Club for dinner Sunday. Al and Jean are frequent visitors in the desert, and plan to live here permanently before too long. They are both accomplished musicians, (Al is a graduate of the Royal Academy in London) and will add greatly to the cultural life of the community.

A bon voyage party for Harriet and Thoral Lake was given Saturday evening at Shadow Manor, home of Irene Fenton, well known artist, and her husband Chet Fenton. There was only one thing wrong, as all of the guests agreed, and that was the absence of one of the honorees, Thoral, who was confined to his home, on orders from his doctor. As the difficulty was not serious, good sport Thoral insisted that everyone go ahead and have a good time, which is just what they did!

Joyce Holly Gives Vows to Floyd Shannon

WAYFARERS CHAPEL at Portuguese Bend was the beautiful setting for the recent ceremony at which Miss Joyce Holly was married to Floyd Shannon. The just-wed pair are both on the faculty of Chaffey College at Alta Loma.

Duo Now at Home in Montclair

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Wilhelm Carlson of Palm Springs are announcing the marriage of her daughter, Miss Joyce Holly of Montclair, to Floyd Shannon of Ontario, Calif. The bride and her husband are both professors in Chaffey College at Alta Loma, and have many students from this area in their classes.

Elegant simplicity marked the wedding, which was witnessed by members of the two families and a few close friends. The Rev. Kenneth A. Knox officiated at the double-ring ceremony solemnized in the famous Wayfarers Chapel at Portuguese Bend at 6 o'clock in the evening.

The bride was given in marriage by her stepfather, and her sole attendant was her sister, Miss Joan Coolidge of Westwood. Standing with the benedict as best man was William Merrill of Redlands.

A Bride in White Lace

For her nuptials, the bride chose a charming and unusual gown of white nylon lace, designed with a bouffant ballerina-length skirt and a form-fitting, sleeveless bodice. Scallops edged the skirt's hemline and were repeated at the semi-low neckline, with a tiny iridescent sequin set into each scallop.

Adding a dramatic detail was a separate shawl - effect overblouse with a small up-standing collar, which opened at the neckline and fell down the back in two wide panels that formed the skirt-length bridal train. These, too, were edged with sequin-trimmed scallops, and were designed to be removable for later evening wear.

With her gown, the bride wore a shoulder-length bubble veil floating from a pearl-dotted coronet of white satin, and she carried a ribbon spray of white orchids and lilies-of-the-valley clasped to the prayerbook which had been used at the wedding of her father and mother.

A Maid in Blue

Her honor maid was in pale blue organza, her frock made with a softly flowing skirt of taffeta, which came to a ballerina length and was topped with a molded bodice detailed with a sweetheart neckline and short puffed sleeves. She added a head circlet of matching satin, flared with tulle, and held a dainty nosegay of pale pink rosebuds.

At the end of the ceremony, just as a misty twilight was falling, a reception and wedding supper were held in a flower-filled private room of La Venta Inn in Palo Verde Estates, where huge glass windows faced the sea and reflected the gleam of dozens of flickering candles.

Odd Socks?

The odd-sock problem finally has been solved. Experts at a sock making firm (Standard Knitting Mills Inc.) report teenagers from Maine to Montana are wearing odd socks of different colors, and swapping them with their friends and using the new fad to pass secret code messages to other sock swappers. One red sock means going steady. One blue sock means not going steady. One green sock means don't disturb—studying. The colored socks are worn with an un-matching white one. Knee socks mean spirits are high; drooping socks signal a low mood and invite kind words of sympathy!

Then the just-wed pair left for a honeymoon journey that took them to Los Angeles, Carmel, Lake Tahoe, Yosemite, and other points of interest in Northern California. They returned over the weekend and are now at home in Montclair. Next summer, they plan to spend their entire summer traveling in Europe.

Distinguished Educator

The new Mrs. Shannon, who is well known throughout academic circles in Southern California, is an associate professor of music at Chaffey College and a member of the internationally famous Roger Wagner Choral.

An alumna of UCLA summa cum laude, she was elected to Phi Beta Kappa in her junior year, and upon her graduation, was awarded a gold plaque as the most distinguished graduate of the year in the field of music and speech. She is also a member of such honorary societies as Delta Phi Alpha, Alpha Lambda Delta, Alpha Mu Gamma, and Mu Phi Epsilon, of which she is a past president.

The bride's father is the late William Leon Holly of Fulton, N.Y.; her stepfather is a member of the faculty at the Katherine Finchy School.

Teaching Career

Her husband, son of Mrs. William Shannon of San Gabriel and the late Mr. Shannon, is an associate professor in the physical science division of Chaffey, and he is now at work on his master's program at Los Angeles State. A graduate of Fresno State College, where he was a Delta Sigma Phi, he has also done graduate work at Sacramento State, the University of Nevada, Chico State, and several other colleges. He served in the Navy during the Korean conflict from 1951 to 1955.

The benedict is a racing car enthusiast and is currently building his own car for the race track. He is also building a house at Lake Tahoe, and on its completion, will begin construction of a home of his own design for their permanent residence.

BPW Clubs Endorse 3 Candidates

The California Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs Inc. has voted to endorse the candidacy of three California women for public office. Those candidates are:

Mrs. Pauline Davis (Democrat) incumbent assemblyman for the second district, of Portola;

Mrs. Beatrice Gale (Republican) a businesswoman from Downey, as assemblyman for the newly appointed 38th district; and

The Hon. Kathleen Parker, Judge of the Los Angeles Judicial District, as candidate for the Superior Court Judgeship Office No. 47, being vacated by the retirement of Judge Fletcher Bowron.

According to Mrs. Cravens Douglass, president of El Segundo, this action taken by the board of directors at Los Angeles on Aug. 26 is in line with the political promotion project objective—"to elect qualified women to public office" for the purpose of giving women a greater responsibility and representation in lawmaking, law interpretation, and law enforcement.

Representing more than 16,000 members in 350 clubs throughout California, the board of directors also adopted plans to conduct a "young career girl leadership training program" designed to fill the needs and advance the interest of the young women of today who will be the leaders of tomorrow.

YOUNG TRACY ANN RAYMOND, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Raymond (Susan Durant), finds the lavish pastry display in the Redwood Room of San Francisco's Cliff Hotel enticing indeed. The Raymonds, vacationing in Northern California, have been taking in the current plays in 'Baghdad-by-the-Bay,' and Tracy Ann was one of very few three-year-olds to see the beautiful 'Kismet.'

GENERAL TENDENCIES:
Very upsetting influences occur today and tonight and you would be wise to do nothing to rouse the anger of anyone about you — and just as careful not to allow yourself the luxury of lambasting anyone or upsetting present conditions no matter how much they do not suit you. Fine for controlled, poised attitude.

ARIES (Birthdays from Mar. 21 to Apr. 21) — You are at odds with yourself whether you go out for pleasure or keep your money safely in your wallet. Be practical, steady. Avert possible argument with associate or attachment.

TAURUS (Birthdays from Apr. 20 to May 20) — Be sure to keep associate and close tie apart or there can be an unfortunate altercation. Plan time so they do not meet. Confer with Big-wigs later and get good ideas.

GEMINI (Birthdays from May 21 to June 21) — Be particularly careful while out driving and do your work well or there can be trouble. You will be restless later. Sit down and read worthwhile literature that is elevating.

MOON CHILDREN (Birthdays from June 22 to July 21) — Don't rely on others for encouragement and praise today, since they are feeling under the weather. Paddle own canoe. Then off to some charming pleasure that pleases.

LEO (Birthdays from Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Particular care in walking or driving should be exercised today. Also, get out to see those who are confined at home or in bed. Be kind, courteous with all.

LIBRA (Birthdays from Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Gambling unwisely can certainly lead to big losses today, if you are not careful. Be wise with finances. Enjoy only proven, inexpensive pleasures in P.M.

SCORPIO (Birthdays from Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — It is important that you adhere to all regulations that apply to you or you will get into trouble. Don't be stubborn. Attend some vital civic duty scrupulously.

SAGITTARIUS (Birthdays from Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Don't permit that secret worry to upset you so much that you err badly in your work. Resolve to make amends. Be cooperative but not subservient, kind.

CAPRICORN (Birthdays from Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Retain equilibrium even though some gossip individual is trying to make you believe something that has no basis in fact. Smile. Avoid social affairs in P.M.

AQUARIUS (Birthdays from Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Show that you can carry through nicely on any civic matter that is your job today. Be calm. Do not commit yourself at this time, but say you will study the matter further.

PISCES (Birthdays from Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — Look to those of different culture from your own for ideas or help of some sort today. Be respectful of their mode of living. Avoid any possible altercations thereby.

If Your Child Is Born Today
He, or she, will be one of those dynamic people who could get into all sort of devilry for the sheer fun of it if you don't give good ethical and moral training early. And inasmuch as much change is ever going on in this life, be sure you equip your progeny well by giving a well-rounded education, plus religious fervor above and beyond your own. Be kind, understanding.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to "you!"

RACINE, Wis. (UPI) — The average family with two children discards about 3,800 pounds of garbage and trash a year — 3,000 pounds a year more than in 1950. Researchers at a firm making garbage disposers report food wastes make up an average 25 per cent of the family refuse. The rest, trash, includes cans, cartons, old newspapers, broken toys and unmentionable socks.

UNION, N.J. (UPI)—Dr. Martin C. Dean of Short Hills, N.J., saw an arm and part of a body jutting from the trunk of an auto passing through here in the darkness Thursday night.

A call to police sent patrol cars converging on the area. The doctor was right, an arm and part of a body were protruding from the trunk.

They belonged to Mrs. Helen Thoen, who was sitting calmly in the trunk supporting a garden railing she and her husband were taking home.

Now, Just What Is a Liberal?

Just what is a "liberal" nowadays—and just what does a "liberal" want?

That question is given potency by the filibuster against the President's bill for further development and financing of communications satellites—of which Telstar was the pioneer.

The bill provides for rigid government regulation of this amazing project. Ownership is evenly divided between private enterprise and the public. The bill passed the House by a vote of 354 to 9—a margin rarely equaled in our legislative history. But a small group, claiming "giveaway," prevented the Senate from expressing its desire for a prolonged period of time and, also, brought Senate business to a standstill.

If this is "liberalism," in any recognizable sense of an ancient and honorable word, the world is upside down. What is "liberal" about attempting to make the views of a tiny, bitter minority take precedence over those of the vast majority?

What is "liberal" about an effort to socialize a venture which, in all likelihood, will revolutionize world communications? Give this unprecedented power and precedent to a bureaucracy, and we would have laid the foundation of dictatorship, in fact if not in name.

Another point enters in here. The bill's filibustering opponents charged that government could not adequately regulate the use of the satellites in a manner which would advance the public interest. Therefore, they went on, government must develop and operate them.

But if government is so incompetent or so corrupt in the relatively simple and well-charted field of regulation, what reason is there for believing it is capable of conducting the infinitely complex job of developing and operating such a communications system?

Finally, the filibustering "liberals" said, in effect, that the President and the Congress have a cynical disregard of the public interest, and want only, to fatten private coffers. One need not fear that the American citizen will be taken in by that outrageous implication.

Other Editors

"And amid all these voices there is a cry that the American way of life is on its way to decline and fall."

"I do not believe it."

This sturdy denial . . . came from Herbert Hoover in a speech at the dedication of the Hoover Presidential Library at West Branch, Iowa.

The words of the former president . . . reflected the devotion of a man who reaffirmed his own faith in the country by saying:

"The word America carries meanings which lie deep in the soul of our people. It reaches far beyond the size of cities and factories. It springs from our religious faith, our ideals of individual freedom and equal opportunity, which have come in the centuries since we landed on these shores. It rises from pride in great accomplishments of our nation and from the sacrifices and devotion of those who have passed on. It lifts us above the ugliness of the day. It has guided us through even greater crises in our past. And from these forces solutions will come again."

Can any American fail to respond to this country's creed so masterfully stated? Can anyone deny the greatness of the man who so speaks? . . .

Here, speaking in the Iowa village where he was born, was a man whose efforts in behalf of humanity are known around the globe. As Mr. Hoover noted, he can count 50 nations with which he worked—"I was not a tourist; I worked with their people."

Famine, the aftermath of war, reconstruction, negotiations for peace—these were Mr. Hoover's tasks but today there is no peace and, said Mr. Hoover: "From all this experience and now as the shadows gather around me, I may be permitted to make an observation and offer a course of action."

Then came the former president's assertion that the time has come for a new appraisal of the United Nations. The UN has failed, Mr. Hoover said, "to give us even a remote hope of lasting peace. Instead, it adds to the dangers of wars which now surround us."

Communist leaders, he went on to say have destroyed the usefulness of the UN to preserve peace.

"The time is here," Mr. Hoover declared, "when, if free nations are to survive, they must have a new and stronger world-wide organization . . . It should include only those who are willing to stand up and fight for freedom. The foundations for this organization have already been laid by the 40 nations who have taken pledges in the five regional pacts to support each other against aggression."

What will be the public reaction to Mr. Hoover's proposal for a new "Council of Free Nations," not to replace the UN but to act to preserve world peace when the UN is prevented from taking action?

Probably there will be considerable support for the Hoover idea. The UN has had fine support in America in the high hope that so long as men talked, they could not fight. But the UN's potential is cut down by refusal of members to share the financial burden of operation, by constant Russian vetoes, by continuing threats of the Communists. New member nations, which demand and receive help from the United States because they cannot support themselves, are given voting power out of proportion to their abilities to participate in all avenues of UN activity.

The memories of UN ineffectiveness remain fresh in American minds. The spectacle of an angry Russian pounding a desk with his shoe, and evident fact that some of the so-called "neutrals" are playing America off against the Communist bloc, are not easy to accept. Nor can the United States continue much longer to dole out billions in foreign aid . . .

While some will not agree with Mr. Hoover's thesis that the UN cannot be made to serve the cause of peace, they must concede that in his speech at West Branch, he faced the problem realistically. And once again he demonstrated his great love for America and his faith in its people.

—Topeka Kan. Capital-Journal

HOLMES ALEXANDER:

Working Example of Coexistence

WASHINGTON — Coexistence, or "doing business with the Russians," is not a popular subject on which to take an objective viewpoint, but such a viewpoint should not be treated as heresy. We owe it to our own morality to find exceptions to Russian perfidy where they exist, and to acknowledge them as opportunities for honest competition.

In professional journalism, all of us coexist with Tass, the Russian telegraphic news service, which keeps a large staff in Washington, New York and in nearly every country where it is permitted to operate.

Tass, like every other enterprise in Soviet Russia, is a governmental agency, and is attached directly to the Soviet Council of Ministers. As such, Tass is required to register with the Justice Department as the agent of a foreign government.

practicing news medium and a Communist governmental agency, is well and skeptically treated in a new book, "The Two Faces of Tass," by Theodore E. Kruglak, formerly chairman of the journalism department and later vice president and provost of Long Island University.

The author finds that Tass definitely operates in Russia's self-interest, as would be expected, and that there are instances where the reporters have not been above doubling as secret agents for their country, much as American reporters have occasionally done. But he finds a great deal of evidence to sustain this general opinion that Tass is a legitimate news medium, that in the post-Stalin period its objectivity has increased rather than otherwise and that we all stand to benefit by the flow of information among the three separate worlds of freedom, Communism and neutrality.

The present menace (always subject to change without notice) is that Tass is a subsidized enterprise in competition with profits-seeking enterprises on our side. This is beginning to matter because Tass and other

Moonlight Sonata
And Clair de Lune
Are now the dairyman's boon,
Barnyard cantata
As baritone croon,
Sweeten the cash tinkle tune.

Due to some technical reading over the weekend, today's treatise is down on the farm — the dairy farm. All things seem to come in threes and it was three separate items, all in the bovine bracket, that caught the eye.

FIRST there was that article about barnyard Hi-Fi. Of course it set forth, the farmer long ago discovered that music spurred the cows to give with more milk just as it influenced the hens to lay bigger and better eggs.

But the scientists had to dig deeper. They had to find out just what kind of music was most productive to lactate largess.

THEY DISCOVERED it was what the boys call "sweet" music. Guy Lombardo, Lawrence Welk and Glenn Miller and Duke Ellington, the latter in their softer moments, put the moo-cows in the mood.

Rock 'n' Roll came out cottage cheese and progressive jazz, instant butter. The Twist didn't do a thing for Mrs. Bull. The added income induced by dulcet diversion more than paid for the cost of a Hi-Fi set or wiring the barn for stereo.

THE NEXT ITEM was a bit more startling. It reported that experiments with false teeth for cows had proven successful. The dentist says "now, this isn't going to hurt a bit," meaning himself, and yanks out the teeth Bossie was born with. I could say here, that's why the cow jumped over the moon, the drill hit a nerve. But I won't.

But that brings up a thought. A cow doctor is a veterinarian. What's a cow dentist?

THE THIRD ARTICLE was the one that threw me. It made the first two as useless as an automobile crank.

Because it said that cows are now being by-passed in this milk making business. British scientists are making milk from pea pods, weeds and cabbage leaves.

The first milk mutations came out sort of greenish and when they got rid of that, the product had a vegetable flavor.

THEY'RE WORKING on that and when they get it licked, this man-made milk is going on the super market shelves as a powder at the same price, or less, than cow-made milk.

The theory is that if a cow can process green stuff through three stomachs and the answer is milk, why can't man do it? Not with three stomachs, of course, but machines.

Aren't men smarter than cows? It could be. People don't talk of cow sense like they do of horse sense, you know.

COMING TO THINK of it, though, I guess I'd rather have milk which had been influenced by the soothing strains of Moonlight and Roses than by flurries of lights and cabbage.

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN:

Dear Abby . . .

DEAR ABBY: I have a dandy for you. I am 32, single, fairly well educated and have a good job that keeps me on the move. Not wanting to become permanently involved with women, I wear a plain gold ring and tell the ladies I am a married man stepping out. This has worked like a charm until now. I have been seeing a girl very often who was clever enough to ask a few questions like, "What does your wife look like? Don't you carry her picture? Why don't you ever talk about her?" I got myself tripped up.

Now she knows I am single and intends to pin my ears to her boudoir wall on a permanent basis. I don't want to get married, but for every argument I put up, she puts up three and frankly, I am being out-talked. Can you help me?

OUT-TALKED
DEAR OUT-TALKED: A man who will say "I do" because he hasn't the courage to say "I won't" doesn't deserve to be rescued. Head for the hills!

DEAR ABBY: Why do customers come into a restaurant and always sit at the dirty table even though there are 30 clean ones available? This puzzles me. Please print your answer as this question is in the minds of many other waitresses.

PUZZLED WAITRESS
DEAR PUZZLED: Perhaps clutter and disorder are more inviting than tidiness. Could it be the same psychology that motivates people to use bath towels tissue and even bath mats to dry their hands rather than disturb the pristine state of a lovely linen guest towel?

DEAR ABBY: Our father died 15 months ago. All of us children are married and have homes and families of our own. Mamma took it very hard although Dad was sick for a year and his death was a blessing. Every night we go through the same thing: "Who's going to stay with Mamma tonight?" She refuses to make her home with any of us, and says she doesn't sleep a wink if someone isn't in the house with her. The first few months we could understand it, but it's been over a year now and we can't take turns staying overnight with her forever. Any suggestions will be welcomed.

ONE OF HER CHILDREN
DEAR ONE: Find Mamma a live-in companion. Surely there is a compatible widow or single woman with whom your mother could share her home. If your mother vetoes that suggestion, make up your mind that she refuses to be pleased and just wants to be catered to.

DEAR ABBY: There is a girl in our office who is about 35. I'll bet she's never had a date in her life. She tells us about these romances she has on her vacations, and she even shows us lovey-dovey cards signed "Louie" and "Paul" that she buys and sends to herself. She's not a bad-looking girl, but what an imagination! Should we take up a collection and send her to a psychiatrist?

OFFICE GANG
DEAR GANG: Collect a little compassion and fix her up with a date.

DEAR ABBY: I was married for ten years to a man who was a devil to live with. Thank heavens that is all behind me and I am married now to a kind and loving man who treats me just wonderful. My problem is that I am still wearing the rings from my first husband and they are painful to wear because of all the unhappy memories that went with them. I can't put them away and go without a wedding ring, and my second husband never got around to buying me any. I guess he doesn't realize how important a wedding ring is to me. It doesn't have to be anything fancy like my first set. Any cheap set will do. How can I make him understand how I feel?

OAKIE
DEAR OAKIE: Tell him, Lady tell him. And, if necessary, take him to the five and dime and make him buy you one.

Letter to the Editor . . .

Editor
The Desert Sun

A one-man (woman) committee, apparently representing the Coachella Valley County Water District, has been putting a few articles in the paper recently that indicate misinformation.

The original intent of the district was to include the area recently annexed in the flood control as well as the water district. However, due to pressure brought to bear by the County Flood Control District there apparently was a change of mind.

It would be most interesting to learn just what county code is referred to as making adequate the water system in question. A normal, operating water district has its own specifications which are generally more rigid than the minimum requirements of the county.

This committee quoted the manager of the district as referring to an oil lubricated well—this is different, to say the least.

Reference is made to the adequate fire protection facilities. It would appear that if the manager would write a letter to the fire department, stating the possibilities of water availability and the conditions of said system, rather than to a local citizen who knows very little in regard to fire fighting, it would be much better public relations.

Some of the statements have been made because wrong information was obtained to start with, and by the time other information is added to this by parties who are not familiar or qualified, the end result is somewhat sad. It appears to be easier for a few to put out bad information than the tell the truth.

The most important item concerning the above mentioned District acquiring the North Palm Springs area is never mentioned by this committee.

In my opinion, the most important item is the economic picture that would affect every taxpayer and water user in the area for many years to come.

The amount of money being paid for the Rancho Ramon Water system is reported to be $2,060,084.42. Due to the fact that there are 1,200 services in the entire system and 400 services being served with water developed in North Palm Springs, the pro rata cost of the system being served from North Palm Springs is $686,692.80.

The method of paying for this system is $2.25 per service per month. This amount is added to the operational cost. Therefore, it is evident the total cost of each and every user will be more than a normal operation.

The initial cost per service is $1,716.73. It is an established fact that a modern water system in all respects can be installed for $300 per service. A modern water system has adequate size mains, fire hydrants, and adequate storage. The sum of $1,716.73 represents over seven times the amount it would cost for a system that would last at least 15 years.

At the rate of $2.25 per month per service, it will take approximately 80 years to pay for our pro rata share of the cost. In the meantime, it will be necessary to replace the present system and provide for adequate storage.

The persons using the water are the people who pay for this type of an arrangement. Not only that, but the people paid for the system at the time they purchased their property.

It is reasonable to believe, after the above facts are taken into consideration, the committee would take a dim view of passing out further information that is contrary to the foregoing facts.

Another most important fact is proper representation. The above mentioned district has said many times there would not be any representative from this area on the governing board. A taxation without representation. This is not democratic.

In conclusion, think of the economic for the present and future, how will this affect the people in the area for many years to come?

It is much better to get facts than it is to use excerpts from letters written for propaganda purposes.

Sincerely,
A. Harvey Anderson

Quirks in The News

CAUGHT OFF GUARD

DANVILLE, Ill. (UPI) — Two men who escaped from the Vermillion County Jail Sunday were in the clear—until they decided to take a snooze.

The escapees, Fred L. Gregory 21, and Toney Gene Miller, 19, both of Hoopston, Ill., were apprehended while sleeping in the hayloft of a nearby barn.

CAUTIOUS LOUIS

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Louis R. Kennedy was only trying to park his car. And this is what happened:

He crashed through the rear of his garage . . . ripped out a picket fence . . . grazed a tree . . . hit a stump . . . went through another fence . . . and slammed into the corner of a neighbor's house.

Mrs. Kennedy said her husband was trying to park the auto "in his usual cautious manner" when "it just seemed to take off and fly."

STRONG THIEVES

MERRIMAN, Neb. (UPI) — A solid, 20-inch brick vault wall did not deter the thieves who broke through the barrier at the Anchor Bank this weekend and fled with at least $5,000 most of it in silver dollars weighing about 280 pounds.

ROCKY ROADS

NEWTON, Iowa (UPI) — Mrs. J. R. Elmore, 23, was in need of medical attention Sunday when she fell out of her husband's car—but she was involved in two more traffic accidents before she finally made it to the hospital.

Following the original mishap, Mrs. Elmore complained of severe pains and her husband, James, 25, bundled her into his car and set out to find a doctor.

But his car failed to make a curve and swerved into a ditch. Another man, Vic Anderson, then put Mrs. Elmore in his car, but he got lost on a country road and also ended up in a ditch.

An ambulance finally brought Mrs. Elmore to a hospital here, where she was reported in satisfactory condition.

COUNTY GOLF EVENT

Bradley Wins Second Flight in Tournament

RIVERSIDE — Tom Bradley of Palm Springs, who carts a bag of slick sticks along the fairways of any golf course, topped first place honors in the second flight of the Riverside County Amateur Golf Tournament yesterday by defeating R. Snyder in a sudden-death playoff for the title.

The young golfer carded three fine rounds during the Labor Day weekend tourney to finish the 54-hole play with a score of 235 which left him deadlocked with Snyder at the top of the heap. Bradley fired a 78 on Saturday followed by a 76 on Sunday and finished the final 18 holes with a score of 81.

Another resort desert area golfer, Bill Patterson from Gilman Hot Springs, carded a 97 in the final round Monday to win the fourth flight. The 20-handicapper has been playing the game of golf only a little over a year and this was his first tournament win. He toured the Jurupa Hills Country Club links in rounds of 85-87-97 for a total of 269 five strokes ahead of the second place winner.

Col. Bill Adams of nearby March Air Force Base topped the eighth annual Riverside County Amateur Championship flight in another sudden-death playoff in edging Tony Marimon, the 1961 champion, to become the 1962 champ. A strong field of 160 amateur golfers were entered in the annual tourney and many of the best low handicap linksters of Southern California toured the course during the three-day Labor Day weekend event.

Rams Swap Thomas For Mike Henry

Los Angeles Rams today were to greet their new teammate, line-backer Mike Henry, who was obtained Monday from the Pittsburgh Steelers for halfback Clendon Thomas.

Henry, a former USC standout, was a four-year veteran with the Steelers. But the rugged 225-pounder will have his work cut out for him with the Rams as the line-backer position is getting a bit crowded with eight men listed in the position.

Henry had told the Steelers he would not return to pro football this year because he had a movie contract with Warner Bros. Studios. He was given a leave of absence by the studio until January.

Thomas, a former Oklahoma great, had played both offensively and defensively for the Rams. He was moved out of his starting safetyman slot this year by rookie Bobby Smith and has seen duty only as a punt return specialist.

In another development, line-backer Bob Pelligrini, recently obtained from the Philadelphia Eagles, was traded to the Washington Redskins for a high draft choice.

Golfing

with ALEX MORRISON
Teacher of Champions

Doug Sanders' success with short backswing has caused many younger pros to shorten their backswings.

DOUG SANDERS said: "If my backswing gets any shorter I'll have only a forward press and a follow through." Doug's winning of considerable cash has established a vogue for the shorter backswing.

Imitators should be guided by the following basic facts.

One: The swings of all tournament pros from Snead, Palmer, Littler, down to novices, are different combinations of negative and positive items respectively in personal mannerisms and Correct Pattern essentials.

Two: consistent success depends mainly on the amount of essentials regularly used in the player's swing.

Three: users of the various combinations often confuse mannerisms and essentials.

Four: imitators invariably copy mannerisms more than essentials and thereby acquire a swing technique without enough essentials to afford consistent success.

Cherubs Blister Home Four Times in Ninth

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Los Angeles Angels pulled off another one of their patented cardiac capers in Yankee Stadium Monday night after dropping the first game of a doubleheader 8-2, and came roaring back in the ninth inning of the nightcap to score four runs and nip the Yankees 6-5.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Los Angeles Angels have asked waivers on veteran relief pitcher Art Fowler for the purpose of giving him his unconditional release. Fowler, sidelined for the past month with an eye injury, has a 4-3 record with the Angels this year.

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Coach Jack Curdick of Stanford commended his team for being in good condition Monday—but ruled out contact work for another three or four days.

It was the second practice session for the Indians, and Curdick confined it to two brief workouts. He said Gary Craig, a regular halfback last season, has still not reported to practice.

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — The University of California Bears held their first passing scrimmage Monday, but coach Marv Levy thought the work of quarterback Randy Gold and Jerry Walters showed much to be desired.

They were subbing for the injured Craig Morton and Larry Balliett. Balliett is due back Wednesday after suffering an inflamed ankle, but Morton has been declared out for at least a month.

STOCKTON, Calif. (UPI) — The University of Pacific Tigers concentrated on passing and blocking drills Monday in temperatures which rose to 89 degrees.

Belinsky Chased

In the ninth inning, The Angels stunned a crowd of 55,705, the largest of the season at Yankee Stadium, by blitzing across four more runs to earn a split of the two games and remain only 4½ games back of the front-running New Yorkers.

Manager Bill Rigney today sent Don Lee, 11-10, against New York's Whitey Ford, 14-7, in hopes his gutsy crew could come up with more of the same heroics and gain on the elusive Yankees.

New York left little doubt about the first game with a five-run outburst in the seventh inning to chase starter Bo Belinsky and break a 2-2 tie.

Solo home runs by Leon Wagner and newcomer Leo Burke gave the Angels an early 2-0 lead, but the Yanks picked up a pair in the fourth and then capitalized on bases loaded doubles by Tom Tresh and Roger Maris in the seventh to give Belinsky his ninth loss against eight defeats.

Bill Stafford was credited with his 12th win.

Burke Hits Again

The nightcap began the same way. New York built up a 5-0 advantage by the fifth inning and were coasting to victory when Pearson hit his homer.

Then in the ninth, Lee Thomas beat out an infield single and Leon Wagner ripped one through the middle. Bob Dodgers then whacked a double scoring Thomas and sending Wagner to third. Burke, the young Angel batting phenom who blasted a three-run homer to win Sunday's game, rapped a single to left to score Wagner and Rodgers and tie the score at 5-5.

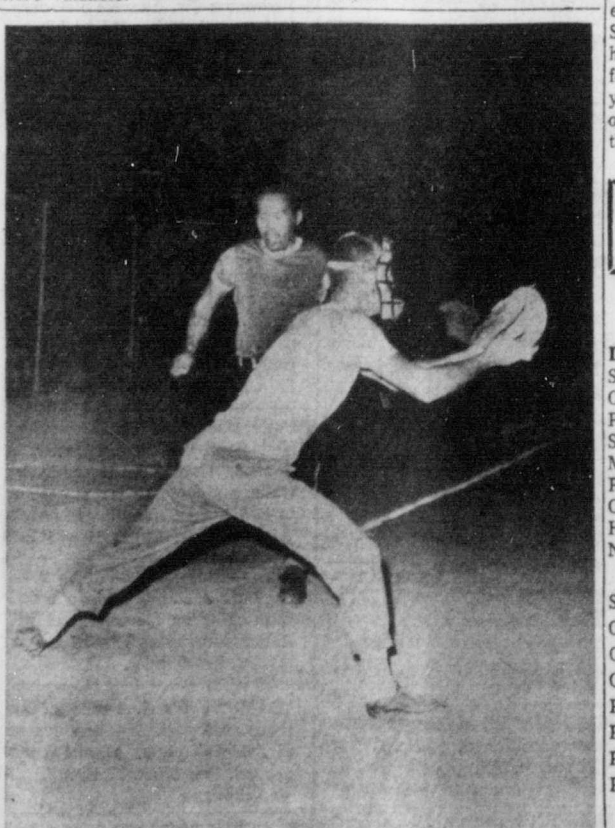

Tom Morgan got the win and Yankee relief Ace Luis Arroyo absorbed the loss.

Giants Use Fast Track To Bury Dodgers, 7-3

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Dodgers finally got the Giants at Chavez Ravine with its rock-hard infield, but the results were no different from those at Candlestick Park and its water-logged infield. The Giants won.

San Francisco overcame the infield dirt, light smog and a 10-game jinx to defeat Los Angeles, 7-3, Monday in the opener of their big four-game series. It was the first Giants victory in Los Angeles in 11 games and moved them to within 2½ games of the first-place Dodgers.

After the Giants swept the three-game series between the clubs three weeks ago at San Francisco, the Dodgers yelled murder. The gist of their argument was the Giants soaked the dirt part of the infield and left the grass part unkempt in order to overcome the Los Angeles advantage in speed.

Dodger first baseman Ron Fairly, said, tongue in cheek, that he needed boots to play his position. Dodgers shortstop Maury Wills was more vehement about the undated infield—and was ejected.

Sanford Wins 20th

But to a man, Los Angeles swore it would be different at Dodger Stadium. It wasn't.

The Dodgers didn't get on base enough to use their speed. Jack Sanford stymied them on eight hits to become a 20-game winner for the first time in his seven-year major league career. And old nemesis Willie Mays—even though he was batting just .188 for the past two weeks—slammed his 42nd homer of the season with two men on base. Tom Haller also belted a solo homer for the Giants.

"We're not going to keep clubs like the Giants from winning here forever," philosophized Los Angeles manager Walt Alston after San Francisco had won its first game in six tries at Dodger Stadium in 1962.

"But they've got to take all four games of this series to hurt us real bad. And they won't do that."

Alston hopes rookie Pete Richter (4-3) makes sure "they won't do that" when he pitches against the Giants tonight in the second game of the series. A cautious Alvin Dark chose Billy Pierce (13-4) to pitch for San Francisco.

Giants Need Three

Dark, while pleased with his club's win, emphasized the Giants must take at least three of the four games. A split, of course, would leave San Francisco 3½ games behind Los Angeles—exactly where it started Monday.

Dark said before the game he had nothing to do with the Giants' watering the Candlestick infield, and then took a verbal shot at the Dodger Stadium dirt, calling it "the brickyard." However, after the game he would not comment on what effect, if any, the field had on play.

"We have been playing real good ball against the contenders," Dark said.

Packers Defeat N.Y., 20-17

Rematch of 1961 NFL
Playoff Tilt

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI) — Both coaches were of a single mind Monday night after the Green Bay Packers edged the New York Giants, 20-17, in a rematch of last season's National Football League playoff here.

"That was the story of the game — the kick return," Vince Lombardi of the Packers said.

"We let them get a couple of long runbacks, but outside of that I was pretty happy," Allie Sherman of the Giants said.

The two long runbacks, one of 72 yards by Elijah Pitts and another of 53 yards by Willie Wood, set up a touchdown and a field goal for the Packers, whose win was the 18th in a row in three seasons play.

Pitts' runback started on the Packers' 17 and ended on the Giants' 11 where rookie halfback John Yaccino hauled him down.

Two runs by Jim Taylor and a five-yard pass from Bart Starr to Paul Hornung scored the clinching touchdowns after the third quarter run.

Sherman, whose team has been hard hit by injuries this year, lost another player Monday night when tackle Rosey Brown was taken to a local hospital after apparently suffering from heat exhaustion.

In other Saturday night NFL games, the Washington Redskins snapped a string of 18 consecutive pre-season defeats by edging the Chicago Bears, 29-28; the San Francisco Forty Niners trounced the Dallas Cowboys, 26-7; the Detroit Lions beat the St. Louis Cardinals, 19-14, and the Philadelphia Eagles spanked the Pittsburgh Steelers, 35-14.

The Minnesota Vikings scored their first exhibition victory of their two-year existence when they upset the Baltimore Colts, 24-13, in Sunday's only NFL game.
